BlinkenArea Kits 35C3 – Page 2/2
All projects below use the "BlinkenPlus" firmware . It supports playing animation files from an MMC/SD/SDHC card (FAT16 or FAT32, file formats BIN, BBM, BLM and BML described in the BlinkenArea wiki) or an RS232 or USB (using a virtual serial port) MCUF stream (format documented in the BlinkenArea wiki). They also output a stream of all displayed frames (regardless of source), so one project can act as a master for others (if they have the same resolution). Animation files can be created with "Blimp", a "Paint"-like GUI where you can draw and set the display duration for each frame. Alternatively you can use the available converters from "BlinkenLib" and the "bl" output plugin for mplayer, or write your own scripts that generate BlinkenStreams or BlinkenMovies.
TicTacLights Colour
Small BlinkenLights clone (18 x 8 = 144 pixels, aspect ratio 0.55) with size 0805 RGB LEDs. Fits into a regular TicTac box.
Size: approx. 57 x 33 mm
Plays animations from Micro-SD card or USB stream
Powered from USB or other 5 V source.

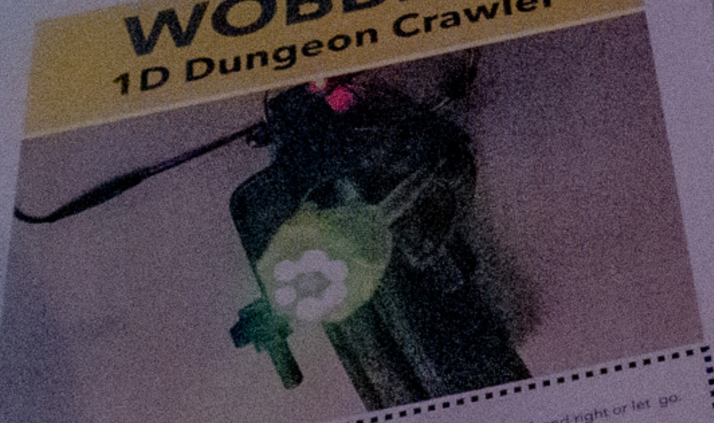
WOBBLER
1D Dungeon Crawler



Introduction
You're a heroine caught in a dark dungeon full of monsters and lava, like is mostly any other dungeon game. Only here, there dungeon is one-dimensional, meaning you cannot dodge the creepers. You must fight them with your magic blue sword!

Control
In one dimension you're kinda limited in what you can do. Moving forward, backward and attacking.

Controller
It's the shoetree in front of you. No buttons.

Moving ↑↓
Advance by pushing the shoetree away from you, retreat by pulling it towards yourself.

Fighting ←→
Wobble the shoetree left and right or let go.

The map
Green dot *
This is you, our heroine on their quest!

Blue dot *
You goal, reach it without getting killed.

You'll find out the rest as you go.
Good luck!
